THE BROKEN SCREEN AT BALMORAL

THE time was 11.35 a.m. on a bright spring day. With the naked eye it was possible to read it from the main Deeside road on the clock tower of Balmoral Castle, now deprived of the protection of the "Prince Consort's screen" of trees by the river — a sequel to the great storm. See report and pictures on pages 7, 8, 9 and 10.
